

Thank you for taking time to review our brochure. We hope we can help you to choose the best product for your facility and make this investment process as easy and informative as it can be.

Before you move on further, let us give you the background on our company as we believe it is very important to know about the people behind the scenes designing and building these machines.

Vartek is founded by Emre VARISLI has an experience experience of over 15 years in sheet metal fabricating machinery world. Having closely worked with thousands of customers from around the world, they had a solid grasp of the gap between what the fabricators need and what they are offered.

This is the core reason of Vartek's existence. It is our belief that we can create a positive difference with our grasp of the market, our mentality and our products.

We are not in the business of treating you like a commodity buyer. We know well that every fabricator has different needs and different production scenarios and every press brake and shear in turn has to be crafted to suit different needs.

In this sense, we are proud to present ourselves as an engineering company first and machinery builder next.

For this reason, we don't have a sales pitch to go through. We prefer to listen to what you say, go over your production process and finally choose or create together a model that will make things easier for you today and tomorrow.

We are also proud of our design and production team working tirelessly behind the scenes to bring you not just a machine but a solution that is crafted for your specific needs. All our staff are sector veterans and they have spent long years building press brakes and shears. Guided with the right vision and mission, they thrive to design and build the best solution for you.

We hope you like what you see here and give us the opportunity to create a solution for your needs.

Regards
